Use of the Site

The texts present on the site can be used freely for cultural and non-commercial activities provided a clear indication is given of the source of origin, the authors of the text (when this information has been provided), the dates of writing and updating and the related URL.

All items available for download on the site such as, for example, technical documentation, forms etc., will be freely available without charge (unless indicated otherwise) on condition they are not used for commercial ends or unlawful purposes. In no circumstances may the Reggio Emilia State Records Office be held liable for loss or damage of any kind caused directly or indirectly by access to this site, by failure to gain access to it or by it being impossible to do so, by the use of interactive instruments or by the use of the information contained in it.

The Reggio Emilia State Records Office makes every effort to ensure that the information on this site is as up-to-date as possible but does not make any guarantee with regard to its accuracy or completeness. Citations and references to legislative texts in particular have been provided purely for purposes of information and should not be relied on as legal sources. It is therefore recommended that official sources of such documents should be consulted where appropriate.

Please note that the Reggio Emilia State Records Office does not in any way guarantee that the content of external sites accessible through links present on this site is accurate or up-to-date.

Privacy Protection

The Reggio Emilia State Records Office guarantees that the processing of personal data received by email or electronic forms, including as part of the registration process, complies with the requirements of current privacy law (the "Privacy Code", Legislative Decree no. 196 of 30 June 2003 coming into force on 1 January 2004, as subsequently amended and supplemented).

In particular, the data concerned will not be sold to third parties and they will be used exclusively for communications relating to the site and its contents and for the sending of information on subjects relevant to the site contents.

Personal data will be processed exclusively for the conduct of the activities described in Article 24 of the Privacy Code, not requiring the consent of the interested party (the data subject).

The rights of the data subject are set out expressly in Article 7 of the Privacy Code. Such rights may be exercised by simple request and without compliance with particular formalities, sent by registered letter, fax or electronic mail to the Data Controller or the Data Processor of the personal data concerned.

Date of writing: March 2011
